

Dora Giselle Maradiaga

Dora is NCD Policy and Advocacy Officer for NCD Alliance and Vital Strategies, supporting both organizations in the inclusion of non-communicable diseases (NCDs) on the global health development agenda, with a particular focus on UN activities in New York. She is the link between the overlapping policies for both organizations on tobacco control, environmental health, road safety, and obesity prevention.

She previously worked at the Mexican Health Foundation developing evidence-based health policies and research for Latin America focused on NCDs, universal healthcare coverage, and the social determinants of health. She holds a Master in Health Population and Society from the London School of Economics and Political Science and a degree in Economics from the Metropolitan Autonomous University in Mexico. She is originally from Mexico and is fluent in Spanish, English and French.
