

Stacey Carpenter

Stacey has been with Optum since June 2014. She is vice president, Consumer Affairs; Recovery and Resiliency, OptumHealth. Part of her work is to establish and maintain relationships at community and national levels for organizations that work toward substance use disorder recovery. She also assists internal stakeholders across Optum Behavioral Health and the broader organization to advocate for recovery and resiliency principles, embedding them in Optum's clinical and care management programs. She can be reached at stacey.carpenter@optum.com.
